Acknowledgment

Conduct deemed as sexual harassment may still be investigated without a complaint being filed by the complainant. In the absence of a Title IX Complaint, conduct may still be investigated under other Board of Education policies of the Student/Employee Code of Conduct. School Administrators or Human Resources may still conduct an investigation under any violation of Board of Education policies which may still result in student/employee discipline.

In the event the alleged conduct in the Title IX Complaint does not meet the standards for investigating under the formal Title IX process, conduct may still be investigated under other Board of Education policies or the Student/Employee Code of Conduct. School Administrators or Human Resources may still conduct an investigation under any violation of Board of Education policies which may still result in student/employee discipline.
